Deported by his pals, the body of the dead robber—believed to be the leader of the band—was found Sunday night in a private garage near 17th and Gilpin streets, in the fashionable capitol hill residence district.

A gaping wound near the bandit's heart told the story. In his pocket was a large caliber revolver with a high powered rifle and a pump shotgun were found in the car.

The man, whose clothing and hands bore evidence that he was not used to manual labor, vented (Continued on page 6)

$20,000 DAMAGE SUIT BEFORE JURY

Trial Opens of 10-Year Old Lad's Case Against Utility.

The $20,000 personal injury trial brought in the interests of Clarence Morris, aged 10, Beloit, by J. M. Beck, guardian ad litem, against the Beloit Water, Gas and Electric company, was scheduled to start before a jury in the Rock county circuit court, Monday afternoon. It is but one of the few cases on the present circuit court calendar in which an agreement could not be reached either for a settlement or judgment to have the jury.

The youthful plaintiff had several fingers burned off and both hands severely lacerated when on July 20, 1912, he climbed to the wires of a telephone pole of the defendant corporation. The Nolan firm of attorneys appearing for the plaintiff, claims damages on the allegation that the company was negligent in not protecting its telephone poles and preventing children climbing them with the aid of the steps and ladders.

Testimony will play an important part in the litigation. The law established by the Wisconsin industrial commission will also be a part of the case to be presented before Judge George Grimm to the jury.

BELOIT COLLEGE BOY LEAVES GIRL WIFE AFTER FLIGHT

BELOIT.—"Dickie Boy isn't so slow after all," classmates said last fall when Dick Runyan, instead of returning to Beloit college, wrote friends here that he had just taken a wife.

And now his Beloit friends are shaking their heads, for word has come from Kansas City that Dickie Boy has deserted the 17 year old Mrs. Runyan, leaving behind him only a suicide note.

Richard B. Runyan came to Beloit college as a sophomore. In a year he became a leader in campus organizations. He was an exemplary student. Smoking and drinking were out of his line; he seldom swore.

On Sept. 16, the "Colonel," as he was known here, registered his first coup. He eloped, borrowing his father's car.

He drove over to Nashville, Tenn., for a date with his sweetheart, Miss Elizabeth Wright, and the next thing the interested parents heard, Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Runyan were on their way from the altar to the coast in papa's car.

THREE INJURED IN COASTING MISHAP

Bob Crashes Into Bridge—Many Other Accidents Due to Ice.

Three persons were injured in a coasting mishap, Sunday afternoon, on Fourth avenue, where the bob, carrying three passengers, crashed into the bridge after turning out to avoid colliding with an automobile.

Those whose injuries required medical attention are: Marion Mallon, 22, left knee and ankle badly bruised; Lucile Mallon, 17, left wrist sprained and bruised on hand; Mrs. Elizabeth Ward, neck hurt.

The parties were enjoying an afternoon of coasting on the ice from the rain and freezing temperature of the night before. They reached the foot of the hill as an automobile came from the opposite direction, and the bob, being struck by it and hit the iron bridge.

The injured were taken to the Bremer-Nuzum clinic, and later to their homes.

Other accidents here.

The automobile of Dr. H. C. Hartman was slightly damaged Sunday noon as the result of the slippery sidewalks.

Jamesville went in Saturday night, all day Sunday morning and Monday for ball dancing. The local inhabitants did not confine their efforts to the ballroom, either. Hundreds of them are nursing stiff legs and sore muscles, and many bruises for their steps were slightly gingerly.

The cause: An icy glaze on sidewalks and streets.

Rain-Saturday night snow turned into a vast sheet of ice when the temperature took a slight fall after midnight. Autos skidded at reckless speeds, horses found their legs all too many and pedestrians performed all sorts of ludicrous balancing stunts.

Some sidewalks were covered with sand or ashes to avert accidents. The street department sanded the hilly sections.

Crossing Crash at Juda.

Three people slipping on an icy crossing at Juda, near the Rock and Range, Juda farmhands, were slightly injured in a collision with the afternoon train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, Sunday afternoon. The accident occurred at a farmer's private crossing a half mile west of Juda.

The men were returning from a visit at the Peter Ruff farm, and were said not to have noticed the approaching train. Going through an open gate, they were upon the tracks when the wheels refused to grip in the ice. The automobile was tipped over on its side completely wrecked and both men cut about the face and legs. They were rushed to Beloit for medical attention.

The train was in charge of Engineer Otto Schlicker and Conductor Charles Jones.

Reprisals Following Berlin's Curt Refusal to Deliver Coal

BERLIN.—Recording the arrival of the French at Bochum, the Lokal Anzeiger says that all work immediately ceased and excitement prevailed. The communists, it adds, began distributing leaflets advocating war with France and demanding the resignation of Chancellor Cuno.

France and Germany Monday engaged in new measures of reprisal and counter reprisal for the Ruhr invasion.

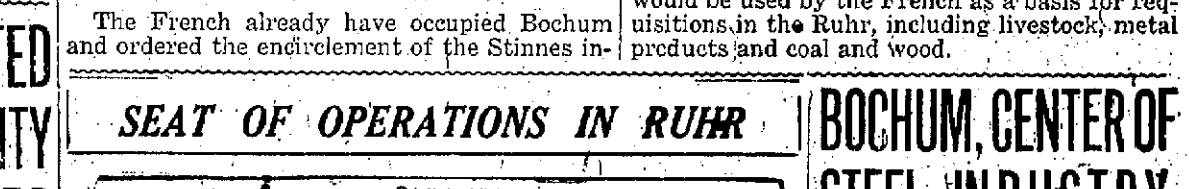

Berlin ordered the Ruhr coal owners not to deliver any coal to France or Belgium even if payment were made for the fuel. France took prompt action to meet this move.

The French already have occupied Bochum and ordered the encirclement of the Stinnes industrial properties, after receiving notification Sunday of Germany's intention to suspend payments of money and deliveries of goods on reparations accounts.

When the coal owners, complying with the instructions from Berlin, declined to promise any deliveries even for cash, the French commander at Dueseldorf ordered a still further invasion of German territory, carrying the French lines beyond the Bochum area to the edge of the big industrial town of Dortmund, nearly eight miles east of Bochum.

It was forecast in Paris that the reparations commission was likely Tuesday to declare Germany in default of her 1923 reparations deliveries. This, reparations circles thought, would be used by the French as a basis for requisitions in the Ruhr, including livestock, metal products and coal and wood.

Love Tangle of Beloit Doctor Ends in Prison; Woman Returns to Mate

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Love's light dimmed for Dr. Charles H. Fry of Beloit, Wis., Sunday night.

Hidden by prison bars, the dream castles of love he had built up around himself and Mrs. Lina Rosentreter, 25, one of his former patients, crumbled into nothingness.

Activated by the love of his fair patient, Dr. Fry deserted his wife and family last September, gave up a lucrative practice and turned over the earnings of his 30 years.

This was the story of the romance told to T. E. Watson, chief of detectives, by Mrs. Rosentreter after her arrest Saturday in company with Dr. Fry.

Sobs in Husband's Arms

Dr. Fry accepted a position as maker of box cars in the Santa Fe yards and took up life in two rooms on the "third floor back" with his former patient's love, she said.

Now, with both Dr. Fry and Mrs. Rosentreter held at police headquarters, the woman's love has cooled. Sunday night she fell weeping into the arms of her husband, Albert Rosentreter, Beloit merchant, begging his forgiveness.

Dr. Fry was one of the leading physicians of Beloit. He was respected a leader of civic betterment, family physician to the best families, the apparent conservative, home loving father of three children.

Mrs. Rosentreter was one of his patients. She was young, beautiful, fascinated. His position fascinated her in turn. Then love grew in the heart of the doctor, old enough to be the father of the woman for whom love he pleaded.

Leave for Missouri

Mrs. Rosentreter left Beloit first. By arrangement she came to Kansas City.

Cats Maul Cats and Janesville Crushes Rockford, 28-21.

BLACKIES REVENGE RECENT TRIMMING WITH BIG BEATING

Sweet revenge listened to the voice of the Janesville Black Cats Saturday night and after a slashing session at the basketball court at the Coliseum rink gave the home town boys a 28 to 21 victory over the Thomas Cats of Rockford. When the cats met last two weeks ago, the power city fellines lost to the forest cities, 27 to 18.

At the same time, the crowd recognized the worth of Hallett's Pussies by coming out to the number of 400. It was a great game, the kind that starts off with the players and shouts their heads off in hilarity that is catching.

Open With Rush
If the previous meeting between these crews was a rattling battle, Saturday night's affair was better than that. Both teams let loose on the rare directly from the first, eagerly pressing the fight for points. Chadsy was outjumped at center, but he made up for the difference by starting the scoring and leading the way for Janesville in the first half.

The local Mewers operated with expert clockwork without a moment's loss of time. Following right on the heels of the swift and cleverly, they pushed Rockford rolling on its back until the fur of the visiting felines stood on end.

Second Half Five, though without Watson and Driscoll who were supposed to have come, was just as speedy as the pink prowlers. They covered the floor with a spread of darts, dashed through, and pulled off the quick stop stuff beautifully. The labors of their guards, Carlson and Lyman, were slick, but the short game of Janesville, with Kober pulling off smooth and accurate feeder passes, counted for tallies.

The Black Cats were on the long end of an 8-2 score at the end of the first quarter, Kakuske having made a pretty counter. The second period was a furious, Babcock used a pivot to perfection and shut out scoring honors with Lauphere and Chadsy. As the half was closing, Miller, sleekly taking the ball from Janesville, and Mee, him, the forward defense of the locals with a total of five baskets. Waves of yells went the air with the score standing at 14-13 for Janesville as the first half closed.

Dozens of shots for the cage from all angles by members of each team failed to get a place on the score book.

Kakuske, Kober Held Heavy.
Despite attempts of Rockford's men to come suddenly from behind to take the sphere in the third period, the Black Cats skillfully handled themselves and took a wide enough lead to hold the game in their hands the rest of the way. Yet, there was such rapid action, so many exciting plays, there were times when the Tom Cats seemed ready to leap ahead. It was the stalwart work of Kakuske and the naturally flashy doing of Kober that held off the onslaughts.

Babcock played a marvelous second half and won the cheering approbation of the fans. He made four field goals, every one noteworthy of special mention, long and clean. Rockford was working the openings good, but somehow could not find the mouth to the basket. They looked things up, pound guard stationed under the goal, but he missed with regularity. His only basket, strangely, was a spectacular plunk from mid-floor.

Unexpected things were happening every second of the fourth quarter. Referee Sennett, mating with full approval of the galleries, let nothing slip by, though he had a hard time trying to check roughness caused by terrible playing. Though the Thomas Felines scored only one basket in the third quarter, they looked things up, won the game in the last period, in which they made six points to Janesville's seven.

Next Thursday, Headquarters company, Wisconsin National guard, will come down here from Whitewater for a tussle with the Black Cats. The Bower City band, which played the Saturday crowd, will be on deck.

MONTHS ago, when news first brought stories of a proposed mid-fight between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion of the world and Ed (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestling king of the universe, this column placed the favoritism upon Lewis. Some at that time believed Dempsey would have a better chance, though these athletes never may meet, except the country over are now coming to believe that Strangler has the margin of breakers. Dempsey would have to land a hard punch at the center, for once Lewis got him down on the mat, it would be his end.

HORSEMEN in other sections of the country, particularly the east, are complaining of a scarcity of a new supply of worthwhile trotters and pacers. They lay it to the automobile, saying farmers who used to raise harness horses have stopped breeding them. Such indications do not prevail yet in Wisconsin for to the west of here.

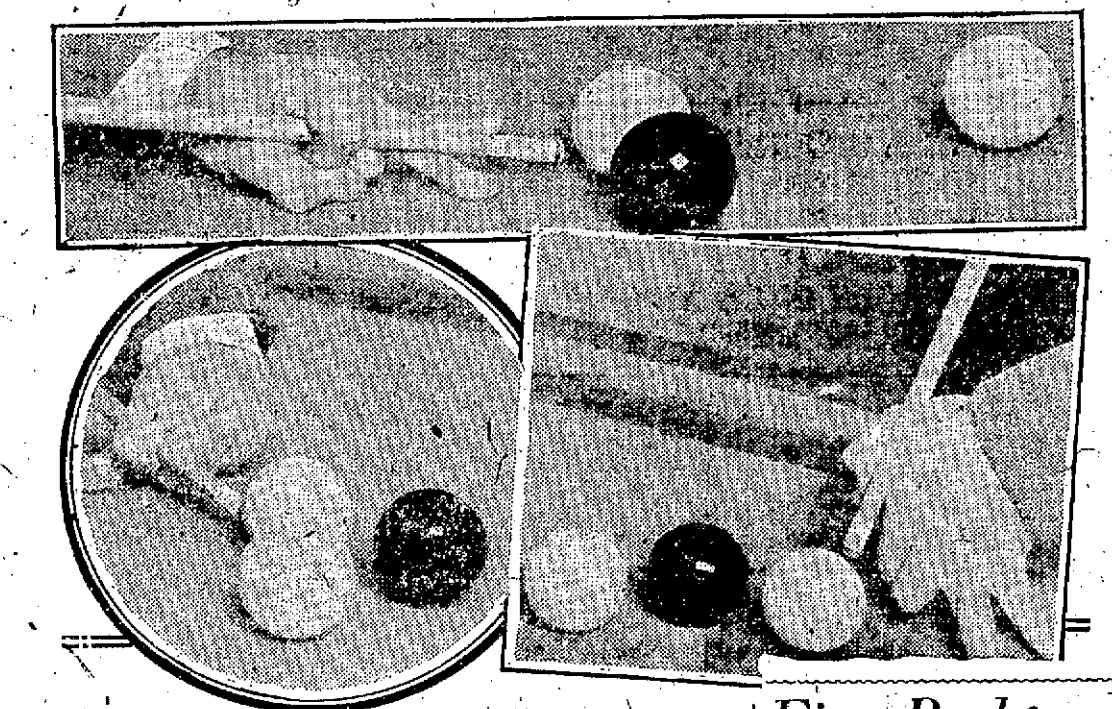

Last year was literally a record breaker in amateur athletics. Fifty-one new marks have been approved by the Amateur Athletic union. Thirty-three of those are classed as new American records, while the others are cataloged as noteworthy performances. Forty-seven of the time busters are for swimming, 25 of them made by Johnny Weissmuller of the Illinois Athletic club. A girl, Miss Sybil Payer of Chicago, is accredited with three new American records and six exceptional performances.

SHIFTING of athletes from place to place for one reason or other is getting a wallop in many different circles. Universities and colleges have been showing the way. Now comes the United States Amateur Hockey association with an announcement by its president that he will ask for a year's residence duty to make a player eligible to participate.

THE BASKETBALL season had hardly grown cold when a statement was made in this column that things would be popping between the majors and the minors this winter. The press arguments now keeping the hillytop operators busy over the draft situation are bearing this out.

Schaefer Runs 166 in Exhibition Before 200 Local Billiard Fans

Demonstrating to 200 fans of Janesville that brains are necessary to click the ivory ball, Andy Schaefer, former champion world billiardist at the 1922 ball game, He also made free use of several forms of hand bridges, the rest, help up the rail.

The above views show three of the styles of hand bridges used here Saturday by Andy Schaefer, former champion world billiardist at the 1922 ball game. He also made free use of several forms of hand bridges, the rest, help up the rail.

The last time, but I won't be again. Schaefer still may be called a youth. He played with extreme coolness, seemingly, contradicting reports he is highly temperamental. His touch was unbelievably delicate.

The strange thing about this expert is that he seldom practices. In fact, he says he has a terror of putting in a lot of time between games at the table. He does his studying of shots, watching the incidents and reflection, while in competition. When he misses, it is by the narrowest of margins, and most often of gear shots.

Managed by Woman
Jake, son of the great champion of other days, was world's title holder in 1921-22, losing it to Willie Hoppe. While he wore the crown, he made $20,000 giving exhibitions all over the country.

The manager of this ivory clicker on his present tour is a woman, Mrs. Edgar G. Speers. She is the only woman manager in the billiard business. Her husband is advance man and publicity agent for Schaefer.

BUSINESS MEN'S CLASS
A noonday class for business men will start at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Wednesday. Classes will be held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. This is in addition to the regular evening classes.

Shows Fanny Shits
Schaefer took the evening match, 250 to 50, in eight innings, an average of 31%. This high run was 50. Matzuyama did not get going so well as in the earlier affair. Evening scores were: Schaefer 30-45-7-38-20-90-7-250 Matzuyama 1-1-1-9-13-17-50

THE MEN WHO NEVER DIE.

Ben Franklin will have a birthday on the 11th. He would have been an old man had he lived to this January, since he was born in 1706. But Franklin is one of the men who live on forever. The mere fact that his body was buried in the cemetery in Philadelphia and his flat tombstone, easily seen through the fence in the very intense business center of the city, has told the story of his demise for more than a century, yet his soul has gone marching on, teaching a world and helpful to all generations. In more than one way Benjamin Franklin was the greatest man of his time. He was an excellent business man, a keen, far-sighted statesman, an inventor because he was a deep and sure thinker. He saw visions of tomorrow and coined these dreams into action, and in history and science, in business and actions of life, he has gone forward still ahead of every succeeding generation. One nation alone does not pay tribute to Franklin's memory—the whole world joins in remembrance of the day of his birth.

Street Commissioner McKune can spread a little sand without its grating on the nerves.

THE MANNER AND MATTER OF BILLBOARDS.

The Gazette has printed several communications from B. J. Manning, of Janesville, on the subject of billboards and other signs that disgrace highways and streets. In other cities, these sign boards along with some other disfiguring structures are given the general designation of "uglies." It is well at this time for the city council to take cognizance of the billboard as a blot on an otherwise picturesque landscape and to exercise the greatest care in giving permission to erect new and disfiguring signs.

There are a number of places, as have been pointed out by Mr. Manning, where the boards cut off the view and make a pretty place an ugly one. A few years ago the palisades of the Hudson—those wonderful cliffs just above New York city—were covered with ugly and offensive signs and at the same time destruction of the cliffs was going on by the work of the quarrymen. This was before the nineteenth amendment, but the women of the state took up the question and finally prevailed on the lawmakers to pass necessary legislation for the preservation of the Palisades from the vandal hand of commercialism. A billboard in itself is not a disfigurement but when placed to obtrude itself between the landscape and the scenic view or to be permitted to rear its brazen head in a residential section, it becomes an "ugly."

It might be well for the City Plan commission to take up this matter and formulate some regulations in reference to signs and billboards within the city and that the county board too, add the weight of its regulations for the country roads which are gradually becoming worse in the matter of signs, and filled with all sorts of disfiguring boards and tin announcements. The state highway department has discouraged all these signs and wherever possible has eliminated them completely.

WOMEN AND THE DANCE HALLS.

Dane county settled the country dance hall question with a cleaning up that has worked wonders in improving the moral tone of these places. Rock county has a number, however, which require watching. It was the women of Dane county who saw to it that the dance halls were wiped out and each made to secure a license before being permitted to operate. The county board took cognizance of the situation and readily gave support to the women in the effort to wipe this evil off the Dane county map. Other counties, too, have followed the example. Brown county has recently taken up the matter where flagrant violations of decency and the ready distribution of bootleg whiskey started rows and scandals involving girls and young men who had previously borne good reputations, had made the situation no longer one to be tolerated. These are problems right at home needing to be settled.

A high tribute to the discrimination of Janesville audiences and another evidence that the very best in music will be given patronage here was shown at the recent concert of the Apollo

What One Scientist's Wife Does

Washington—Did you ever wonder what a scientist's wife thinks about while her distinguished husband is absorbed in collecting fossils, rocks, and other important trifles? Some scientists' wives no doubt sit at home and placidly wait for their roving husbands to return from the field. Not so Mrs. Charles D. Walcott, wife of the head of the Smithsonian Institution.

Every spring when Dr. Walcott packs his camping things in order to start for the great fossil hunting grounds of the Northwest, Mrs. Walcott packs her last trunks, boots, and water color paints and prepares to go with him. Pickers and boots are the only possible tools for crossing glaciers, climbing mountain trails on horseback, and camping for weeks at a distance of 100 miles or more from your nearest neighbor. The paints are equally important in a different way. Mentioning them brings us to what Mrs. Walcott does while her husband collects specimens for the Smithsonian.

Her hobby is sketching wild flowers. She does a palatial flower in an impressionistic way. She makes carefully exact reproductions, painted in size, with colors and shading copied, and every distinguishing feature of the plant shown.

She has 500 of these sketches of wild flowers of both East and West. She has always made her sketches, as another person might collect coins, entirely for the pleasure they gave her. But recently scientists saw them and were enthusiastic. They pronounced the collection unique and valuable to science. Now some of the paintings are on show at the Smithsonian Institution here and at the Art Institute in Chicago, and Mrs. Walcott is being urged to publish them in book form with descriptions.

The Rocky Mountain collection is of especial interest to science because no such reproductions of the wild flowers of that region have been made before. Botanists have collected the flowers and pressed them and studied the parts and determined the families to which the plants belonged. But there was no record of the colors, the shape, the showing of the plants as they are when freshly plucked, and Mrs. Walcott's work, being done with the accuracy dear to science, greatly pleased botanists who saw the sketches.

It is difficult to believe that the author of the sketches is neither a highly trained artist nor a botanist. Mrs. Walcott's mother, it seems, was greatly interested in botany and in painting. She wished her daughter to paint flowers. So, for four years Mary Vaux, later Mary Vaux Walcott, took one lesson a week in water color painting. That was all the training she had. Nothing was dropped for other interests. Her brothers were studying mineralogy and measuring glaciers, and she helped them with their scientific photography.

After marrying Dr. Walcott she gradually took up sketching again. Now 50 flower sketches a summer is considered a fair average. It is becoming difficult for her to find subjects for her brush in the Northwest because so much of the ground has been covered in field trips. She is still kept busy, though, for Dr. Walcott looks out for flower specimens while he is engaged in his explorations. And in winter other scientists who know of the work send her interesting plants to be painted.

When a new specimen comes in she drops everything and paints fast before it has a chance to wither. Every plant must be sketched while it is fresh. When in the field she likes best to take a specimen to the camp and arrange it in water with a good light on it.

Some plants are so fragile or are found so far from the camp that it would be impossible to carry specimens back in good condition. In such cases Mrs. Walcott takes her paint box out of her kit and goes to work wherever she is, even though a fire beside her easel may be necessary to keep her hands from getting stiff.

"We hear much of the flowers of the Swiss Alps," Mrs. Walcott says, "but in the Rocky Mountains of the northwestern states and Canada there are Alpine flowers just as rare and beautiful as any in Switzerland."

Her collection contains sketches of such plants as the bladder campion which does not grow at an altitude of less than 7,500 feet. It is surprising how the mountain plants struggle for existence against overwhelming odds. Poor soil, rocks, snow, and cold nights do not discourage the wild flowers of this region. One flower, the woolly fleabane, has a woolly covering to keep it warm. Others bloom close down between the rocks and in sheltered valleys.

Many of these plants of the western mountains are similar to the wild flowers of more accessible parts of the country. The names too are similar. Yet almost always there are slight differences readily perceptible to the botanist.

There are comparatively little bright pink or red color in the wild flowers of this section. Purple and yellow are more common. There is a good deal of red, especially in the berries and other fruits of the plants. The purple flower, a purple bell-shaped bloom, grows in abundance. Then there is the red lily which covers the meadows on projected mountain sides, and the Alpine cinquefoil, like a yellow buttercup, the blue camas, and several hundred other wild flowers that adorn the mountains in midsummer.

Dr. Walcott and his wife have ranged over thousands of miles in the Rockies and the northwestern states from points as far north as Canada down to Montana and Washington. They go into inaccessible parts of the mountains, camping sometimes a week away from a railroad, as distance is figured by trail. The other members of the party are the cook and two packers to take care of the five saddle horses and ten pack ponies. They camp in from twenty to thirty places between June and October, and make excursions from these headquarters on horseback or on foot.

Twenty-four summers spent in camping have taught Mrs. Walcott to regard as routine incidents that a tenderfoot might regard as breathlessly exciting. Finding the horses stuck in quicksand and having to unpack them in order to pull them out is all in the day's work with seasoned campers, she says. Wild animals do not frighten them because they do not attack the animals.

If there are no outstanding adventures in this business of pursuing fossils and wild flowers through quicksand, and dangerous mountain trails, and over swift mountain streams, it may be only because the scientist's life in the field is one continuous and absorbing adventure.

Who's Who Today

Dr. Melvin A. Brannon.
Accepting Dr. Melvin A. Brannon, since 1917 president of Beloit college, as chancellor of the University of Montana makes him the executive head of all Montana schools of higher education. The chancellorship was created in 1915. Dr. Brannon has his office at Helena and presides over the four Montana state schools which have an enrollment of 6,000 students. These are the University of Montana at Missoula, Montana State Agricultural and Engineering college at Bozeman, the College of Letters and Science at Missoula, and the State Normal school at Dillon. The presidents of the four institutions comprise an advisory board and confer with the chancellor on matters of policy and administration.

Dr. Brannon takes the post with a wonderful record at the Wisconsin school in his five years, having brought the school through the worst of the war, bettered the physical plant and the academic standards and this resulted in a 25 per cent increase in enrollment.

The new chancellor is a classical student and a scientist. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin where he was largely in Latin and Greek and his graduate work in biology. He took his doctor's degree from the University of Chicago and is a member of the Phi Kappa, Beta Phi and Phi Delta Theta fraternities.

He was laboratory assistant in botany, Wabash college, 1888-1889; instructor in natural sciences, Port Wayne high school 1890-1894, and went to the University of North Dakota in 1894 as professor of biology. He held a position in medicine in 1899 and dean of the College of Liberal Arts in 1911, continuing until 1914, when he accepted the presidency of the University of Idaho, going to Beloit college as president in 1917.

He was president of the Wisconsin Colleges Association.

College and Success.
The idea that men are successful because they have gone to college is a fallacy. No man is successful because he has managed to pass a certain number of courses and has received a sheepskin which tells the world in Latin, which neither the world nor the graduate can read, that he has succeeded in his work. The work required, if the man is successful, it is because he has the qualities for success in him; the college "education" has merely given him certain intellectual tools with which to work—tools which he could have got without going to college, but not nearly so quickly. So far as anything practical is concerned, a college is simply an intellectual hothouse. For four years the mind of the undergraduate is put "under glass," and a very warm and constant sunshine is poured down upon it. The result is of course, that his mind blooms earlier than it would in the much cooler intellectual atmosphere of the business world.—Percy Marks, in Scribner's.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

INFUENCE
Let me remember, as I go my way,
How much it meant to me to meet a friend
Who walked and talked with me but yesterday.
Let me be like him to the long day's end.

Let me remember once my head was bowed,
My difficulties seemed to weigh me down,
And then I found a comrade in the crowd,
And we went laughing, jesting, into town.

Time was that grief sat silent in the room,
The home I loved was desolate and bare;
Then came a ray of comfort through the gloom,
A friend who understood was standing there.

No kindly word, once spoken, can be lost,
No kindly deed is ever done in vain;
Nor can we measure where our paths are crossed,
How much from us our fellow man may gain.

I would somehow my influence could be
So fraught with help and comfort and delight
As that of friends who have encouraged me
And sent me brave and smiling to the fight.

CONFESSIONS OF A CYNIC.
I have never lost the friendship of any man to whom I have loaned money. I have always got very sorry payments out of every vending machine I have ever tried.

I have visited many restaurants in search of a satisfactory meal, but the owners are watching them very closely these days.

I don't believe they will ever get up a lead-pencil sharpener that will sharpen the pencil without breaking the lead.

I have tried for twenty years to get on a friendly footing with garlic salad, to please my wife, but have given up.

I don't know how some guys manage to drive automobiles and live on a $1,200 salary and have quite a few things to say about it.

I have tried to be a gentleman in the street car and I believe if Lord Chesterfield had ever tried it he would have lost his reputation.

I have heard that most actors are the same off the stage as they are on the stage, and I find, alas, it is only too true.

Calculating Calories
A layman who sets out to calculate the calories in his diet is reminded of the unhappy monkey racking his brain over the problem. Q. Can anything be done to lengthen the life of rubber? N. S.
A. All rubber goods should be stored in the dark and kept as cool as possible. The consumer of rubber should co-operate with the manufacturer by protecting the product from heat and light whenever possible.

Q. How many more miles will a car run when alcohol is used? H. T.
A. The use of alcohol in an automobile merely keeps the car from freezing. It does not increase the mileage. Alcohol could not be used entirely in place of water as it heats too readily. A mixture of dehydrated alcohol and water in the proportion of five parts water to one part alcohol will not freeze under usual conditions.

Q. Who simulated at the execution of Louis XVI? K. H. N.

Q. Do American ships pay toll in going through the Panama canal? J. Q.
A. All vessels passing through the Panama canal are required to pay toll. American vessels engaged in coastwise trade are exempted from the toll, but the proposition raised a much opposition in Great Britain that a new bill was drafted providing that American vessels pay the same toll as those belonging to other countries.

Q. Is an education for concert performance? J. O. D.
A. Originally an education was written for the purpose of developing technical skill. Each study was built upon a single theme and was meant to develop some particular point, such as staccato, allegretto, and trill. Composers of the present day are adding technicalities, adding to the technical difficulties, themes of beauty and power. Such studies find a place of welcome in the concert repertoire.

Q. Who were the first Americans killed at the battles of Concord and Lexington? K. F.

HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, JANUARY 15, 1923
Astrologers read this as an unusually lucky day. Jupiter, Uranus and Mercury are all in benefic aspect. This is a day in which to push all business, for enterprise is wisely guided.

Many planetary influences which act specifically upon things pertaining to the ambitions mark the new year in which stress will be put upon business.

Practical views of life will be encouraged at this time, and thrift will mean more than ever before.

This should be a lucky day for the opening of new shops or the beginning of new enterprises of any sort, especially if they have to do with machinery.

Aviation should benefit from this day, but while there will be important invention in 1923, warning is given that many accidents will mark a series of record-breaking experiments of some sort.

There is a sign presaging an improvement in the literary achievements of American authors, who will make important contributions to the stage as well as to fiction.

This should be a lucky government day which to sign leases or contracts of any sort.

Actors and actors should profit from engagements begun under this auspicious day, which seems to favor Americans while it presages an influx of foreign players.

Nerves and nervous diseases probably will be dispensed even more than at any previous time, the score decline, and much stress will be placed on the value of proper relaxation.

While surprising events are, to mark 1923, no great tidal waves of fortune or misfortune are prognosticated in the line of commerce or trade.

There appears to be a stabilizing influence of the planets that will encourage medium investments in which there is little risk.

Americans are to feel the influence of conservative forces, but there will be no overbearing of past delinquencies and reckless speculation.

A. The message "What hath God wrought" was sent May 24, 1844 from the room in the Capitol used by the United States supreme court.

Q. Who took the first flight for the initiative and referendum in the United States? J. A.
A. William S. Uren, who was the organizer and secretary of the Oregon Direct Legislation league, 1892-1902, has been called the "father" of the initiative and referendum.

COOKING SCHOOL IS FREE TO WOMEN

Miss Hinkley's Demonstrations to be Given Here, January 23-26.

Women of Janesville and Southern Wisconsin are expected to turn out in large numbers next week to attend the Gazette's four-day free cooking school to be held at the club's store, starting Tuesday, Jan. 23. Modern cooking methods and new ideas in food combinations will be demonstrated, each afternoon, by Miss Elsie Hinkley, home economics expert, a graduate of Lewis Institute, and a woman who has taught the art of good cooking for many years. She is now connected with the department of food economics of the Corn Products Refining company.

There will be lectures on proper diets for every member of the family—what one should eat, and why. Special stress will be laid on food requirements for growing children, and the women will not be neglected, and there will be many suggestions for simple home dishes, as well as concoctions for festive occasions.

Quicker ways of doing things" is Miss Hinkley's motto. The classes starting at 2 p. m. each day, Jan. 23-26, will be absolutely free. Miss Hinkley asks that each woman bring a note book and pencil so she can jot down the recipes and suggestions during the lecture.

HOPEFUL TURN IN EUROPE IS SEEN

French Change Front on Matter of Commission Giving Berlin More Time.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington.—Developments abroad imparted hope and cheerfulness here today and the United States government is in a much better position to extend a helpful hand now than it was 24 hours ago.

News that the reparations commission at the request of France, would begin a parley with the idea of giving Germany more time to pay was taken here as a rift in the clouds of war. Whatever may have prompted the French to turn to diplomacy once more, whether it was the passive resistance of the Germans or the knowledge that beyond would not mine coal, there is gratification that events have so shaped themselves as to permit America to mediate.

Next moves would seem to be, first, a renewed suggestion that the scheme formally laid before the French government by Secretary Hughes now be considered as a formal proposition, and second, that America join the reparations commission so as to be able to use her vote for the best interests of the world.

Not Omaha, Chicago.

For many days there has been a controversy, mostly in the press but not without attracting the notice of both Secretary Hughes and Premier Poincaré, over the exact character of Mr. Hughes' suggestion that a commission of financiers and experts be chosen by all the interested powers to report on Germany's capacity to pay indemnity and a scheme for making payments plus an international loan.

For reasons of his own, Premier Poincaré has chosen to call Mr. Hughes' suggestion an informal matter and to deny that it was presented as a formal proposition. He has taken refuge in the half-splitting definitions of official and unofficial formulas in diplomacy. He has looked upon with disappointment, as it turns out now, Mr. Poincaré's attitude may be turned to advantage for if the French feel Mr. Hughes' suggestion was not a formal proposition, and hence has not been decided, they will not object to making it again in official form if there is any hope of acceptance.

U. S. Plan Aids in Hole.

There has always been a feeling in some quarters here that Premier Poincaré wanted to keep the American plan as a sort of ace in the hole, anyhow, and that he would look with more favor on it after the French had marched into the Ruhr than before. The American plan, however, was made with the idea of preventing the invasion of the Ruhr. Acceptance of it would have compelled the French to abandon their own desire to occupy the Ruhr, and it did not want to do this, first, because they wished to show Germany how much in earnest France was, and second, because French opinion and the world's opinion that the extreme course had been taken. Otherwise a compromise would have overthrown the French ministry.

So officials here are decided here in the overnight and it would not be surprising if at any moment a hint came from France that, if the American plan is revived, it would be accepted. Such action would be taken unquestionably the administration would wish to get the authority to attend officially the sessions of the reparations commission.

New Deal Asked.

President Harding in a recent letter to Senator Lodge said the hands of the executive branch of the government were tied by lack of power because of the reparations controversy. When Senator Robinson, democrat, introduced his resolution to give Mr. Harding the necessary power, events had changed somewhat and the administration felt that it would be "inopportune" to pass the resolution at the very moment when France was beginning to move into the Ruhr. It appears that France has decided to ask the reparations commission to arrange new conditions of payment. On such a request, the consent is required in the reparations commission. America's opportunities to reconcile the conflicting viewpoints of Britain and France would be enhanced if Mr. Boyden, the American representative, had full power to vote and act. Unquestionably the overnight news will make it difficult for the administration to take active participation in the councils of the reparations commission.

Deaf Boys Take Thrilling Game

Delavan.—Splendid staying qualities and team work of the state school for the Deaf enabled them to win from the Bradley Knit Weavers of Delavan, 30 to 23, a thrilling game to have things their own way the first half due to weight and height, but in the fourth quarter the deaf boys played up a big game. Repeated fouls by the state school gave Amstutz eight free throws. In a preliminary, the state school seconds defeated Delavan high, 15 to 12. Summary:

Eight "Floppers," Nightly Average

Nightly registration of "floppers" in the city lockup is averaging from eight to nine a night, police records show, a total of 29 having been listed since the first of the month. There were 117 from Dec. 14 to Jan. 1, compared to 187 for the month of December, 1921. The "guests" are served with free breakfasts.

POLICE GET REPORT OF MAN HURT IN FALL

Chief of Police Charles Newman is attempting to connect up the reported beating of Charles Carpenter, 101 North Main street, by reports received by police that a man was heard falling downstairs on North Main street one night last week. Carpenter, in the hospital as a result of his injuries, maintains he was attacked by thugs and robbed of $97. When questioned by Chief Newman, Carpenter could remember little of the affair and suggested, according to the chief, that the police give up their investigation in view of the length of time elapsed since the incident.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES

Milwaukee.—George Boos, 76, for more than 60 years a resident of Milwaukee, is dead at his home. He served with the Fourth Wisconsin cavalry during the civil war.

NEW SENATE CLERK IS FORMER PASTOR

F. W. Schoenfeld, Edgerton, chosen chief clerk of the state senate, has long been a fighter for Robert M. La Follette. In the days of the campaign Schoenfeld was one of the organizers in the southern part of the state for Senator La Follette.

He was born in Dodge county in 1853, graduated from Northwestern college in 1872, and later from the Union Biblical Institute. As a Congregational minister he held charges at Dodgeville, Prairie du Chien, and Bloomington, retiring several years ago.

He has four children. One daughter, Geneva, holds a position at Spaulding, Wisconsin. Russell is a senior at the state university. Fern is a senior at Beloit college, and Lorraine a senior in Edgerton high school.

TAYLOR DECLARES STATEMENTS FALSE

Income Tax Assessor in Warm Protest to Supervisors' Remarks.

F. A. Taylor, assessor of incomes, came back on Saturday with a vigorous "kick-back" aimed at the supervisors who rejected bills of his office, with special attention to L. A. Markham, one of the purchasing committee. The difference that exists between the assessor's office and the county officials is as to who shall pay certain costs of the tax office, the county or the state.

Declaring that statements made before the county board were unwarranted falsehoods, Mr. Taylor issued the following statement:

Taylor's Statement

"Every statement made by Mr. Markham concerning the bills in question is an unwarranted falsehood.

"The inference one might draw from his printed statement in Friday's Gazette, 'that the state is trying to impose on the county obligations that it should carry,' is also a falsehood, and should not be accepted by the public as having any foundation in fact. Mr. Markham could have truthfully stated that the county board has paid similar bills for the past several years without objection.

"Records in this office show the bills were sent Mr. Markham through the mail on Jan. 5, and that on Tuesday, Jan. 9, he called at this office and stated that the bills were satisfactory and would be allowed. These bills were from the Brandenburg Printing company and were sent to my office for approval, and then forwarded to Mr. Markham, as stated above. Just why Mr. Markham would so carelessly represent these bills in my office and then step across the hall and ask the county board to reject them is not clear. He seems, however, to have discovered his mistake and later in the day made a strenuous effort to have his motion for rejecting the bills reconsidered, but lost out by a vote of 24 to 18.

Get Down Expenses.

"The county is suffering from burdensome taxes. The cause may be explained as arising out of just such acts as these. Keeping the county board in session for days when hours would suffice is expensive business. All expense of the county board is being paid out of the county treasury. The state is in no way indebted to the county through this office. In the last ten years the county has received through the income tax for the county $17,000, and for the county at large, including all districts, $750,171.19, with but a few dollars outlay for printing and supplies.

"The state in the same time has received through all county income channels $88,352.35, and paid every salary connected with this office and traveling expenses," declared Mr. Taylor.

"Every statement I made on the bills of the assessor was after the district attorney had cited the law to me, advised me that the bills were not my personal opinions.

"The solution to this issue is to have the county board put in a certain amount to maintain expenses but to board to pay unless we know they are fully authorized. The county has no trouble in collecting its funds from the state highway commission," added Supervisor Markham.

Occasionally a married man does a lot of talking when he is away from home, because that is about the only chance he gets.

The Power Of Vision.

Have you ever thought what an important part in civilization vision has played?—vision in the sense of seeing beyond the present and conceiving of things as they might be?

All men who have achieved have been men of vision—our discoverers, inventors, builders of business enterprises.

Twenty years ago, Mr. J. C. Penney operated a small store in a small town. He visioned a whole chain of stores, ever growing, becoming each year more beneficial to an ever-increasing number of people. The outcome of that vision is 371 Stores in 29 States, daily serving the public—and still growing.

UNUSUAL VALUES Thruout Our Store.

No matter how stoutly people maintain that they resent having anything "put over on them," they really only resent it when the "putting over" is so blunt that it can't possibly pass for anything else.

This holds good of so-called "sales." The secret of "sales" is merely this: A merchant marks up his prices enough to permit an apparent slashing during the "sale," these "sale" prices being the prices that should have prevailed right along. So the public pays inflated prices eleven months in the year to get "sale" prices one month.

Our policy is to have absolutely rock-bottom prices every day in the year. Every day is a real "sale" day in our 371 Stores.
